Pete's Ielcles.

Pete was a Kansas immigrant from the South, in which climate he had never seen weather sufficiently cold to form an icicle. The furmer he hired out to gave Pete instructions one day to go to the wood-shed and tell Jake, a Northern "nig," to remove the icicles from the barn. The word icicles staggered Pete. However, he kept muttering the sentence, "De eye sycles in de barn," until, when he reached the woodshed, the sentence was so inextricably mixed that he stood for a few moments looking at Jake, expecting he might auticipate the message and relieve the old man of his diffieulty. Finding no relief in Jake's stare of inquiry he launched out with, "Look a liyar, you Jake, de mass'r tole me to tele you, dat you wor to-to-ur-to remove de barnneles in de iee ; you hyar?" The ground in front of the little cave (which was pointed out to me) falls sleepily down, and the Zulus, taking advantage of the rocks and stones seattered about, eudeavored, two or three at a time, to approach and shoot him. The soldier, however, was very cool and wary, and invariably shot every Zulu as he appeared. He did not blaze away hurriedly, but loaded quickly, took deliberate aim, and 'killed a man with every shot,' till at last, the Zulus now very tired, a number of men, good shots, were brought up with guns, who fired simultaneously at the unfortunate man, and so killed

The Automatic Feed Attachment not only adds to the convenience of playing, but effects a great saving of the music drips which are always protected by The music is drawn: off the feed-toll, and automatically fed on to the take-up roll, by means of a patenled positive friction shaft, workin; against the fred-roll flunge. The music comes on rolls with metal bearings, at no extra cost for the roll.

The price of rell music per foot, same as the single strips, but it comes on a black wainut roll, ites of attractions.

Price of Automatic Feed Attachment, only $2.50 Extra, and the value of the instrument is greatly enhanced by the addition of it. This is the price of the sitachment complete, and does not, of course, in lude a roll of music.

Will be sent, with complete sets of music, C. D. for balance, on r ceipt of $3, with privilege of examination, or on receipt of full price will be prepaid to any address in the United states.
